

Original Questions

- 1) The evolution of modern football, according to the eye test, has placed less emphasis on possession. What is the impact of possession on winning games?
- 2) What are the most effective offensive and defensive footballing tactics?
- 3) Work rate is highly emphasized by grassroots coaching. Are the most successful teams and players hard working or efficient with their movement?

Evolved Questions

We removed the first question that was related to possession because we felt that the second question, which deals with most effective tactics, covers roughly the same area as the first one. We kept the latter two questions and added two more questions: one about the peak age of players and one about the differences between leagues.

- 1) What are the most effective offensive and defensive footballing tactics?
- 2) Work rate is highly emphasized by grassroots coaching. Are the most successful teams and players hard working or efficient with their movement?
- 3) What is the peak performance age for a footballer?
- 4) How do different countries' leagues vary in their football (scoring, play style, competitiveness, etc.)?
